Written Description

For project two I will be reconstructing and improving my original web site created for project one. The site will be more interactive and pleasing to the eye then the first was, and should hopefully in turn be more fun to visit. At the same time it will also be somewhat educational in that it will give people new to video games a brief introduction to them. A lot of the page content from my first project will be kept the same, however the interface will be vastly changed.

With project two I will be designing the site to look more like a video game. Navigation will consist of clicking controller buttons to get from page to page. There also will be short movies to watch and more interaction over all. My intent is to make the site a more like a game to better show people what video games are like while visiting my web site.
